Recently I discovered that somebody had keyed my car leaving quite a long and deep scratch on the wing. Been a relatively new driver I had no idea where to start when looking for somebody to help with the problem and I also had a worry that as I was clueless people would try and rip me off. Then a member of my BNI chapter recommended Liam and Ready4Retail.

When I called Liam he was extremely helpful and I was able to take the car in for a quote pretty much straight away. I obtained quotes from another three companies and found that Ready4Retail were offering the best price by quite a substantial amount.

When I took the car in, I was impressed by not only the quality of the work but also the quick turnaround. I handed Liam the keys Thursday afternoon and had the car back by Saturday morning.

Liam was also able to give me advice on other car related issues, which I really appreciated.

I found the service I received from Ready4Retail to be of a very high standard and Liam to be very friendly, helpful and knowledgeable. I would definitely recommend Ready4Retail to anybody looking for car repairs.
